

Flora M. Laird Memorial Library Strategic Plan

Mission

We connect our community to each other and the world.

The Myrtle Point Library is a place where all are welcome. We are good listeners, good neighbors, and good sharers. We actively seek feedback and respond to our community's needs. We acknowledge and honor the diversity of experiences and needs within our community. We are a cornerstone of intellectual freedom and committed to providing free access to quality information for every seeker.

The library belongs to the community, and we belong to each other. We learn and grow together, and the library is committed to providing the necessary space, time, and resources for us all to flourish.

Values

Equity

- The library welcomes all and respects the diversity of our needs and experiences

Connection

- We provide the space, resources, and time to create meaningful connections with each other, our community, and the world.

Learning

- We are all learning. We aren't afraid to try new things and make mistakes. We support our community in whatever learning goals they have.

Goals

- An accessible library where everyone is welcome
 - We are fundraising for a library expansion and remodeling project, in order to provide fully-accessible space for resources, programming, and community meetings.
- Responsive, engaging community programming
 - We will ask you what you want and try our best to provide it.
 - Our programming seeks to support community connections and a deeper understanding of the world and each other.
- Access to technology and tech education
 - We understand the importance of access to information technology and tech help.
 - We will provide current, accessible technology and trained staff to assist.
 - We will stay informed so we are ready to help.
- A collection to support the community's needs and interests
 - We take patron requests seriously, and are building a collection to reflect the diversity of our needs and interests.
